

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

forward look, inc. Engages StreamBase as a RiskForecast™ Preferred Solution Partner

(Boston, MA) October 29, 2007 – forward look, inc. today announced a partnership with StreamBase Systems to deliver novel solutions for institutional investors and their investment managers that measurably improve portfolio performance. forward look's RiskForecast™, is an analytic service that identifies and evaluates potential shortfalls in performance stemming from inefficiencies in a manager's operation. Using proprietary analytics, the RiskForecast™ service generates forward-looking, multi-factor profiles that yield an incisive continuous 'look-through' at the quality of a manager's operations. Optimizing investment operations can return risk-adjusted performance gains ranging from 50 to 250 basis points. Through the use of RiskForecast™, managers can resolve core operational issues and more readily deliver the full value embedded in their investment ideas. StreamBase's Complex Event Processing (CEP) software will now be a key component of the RiskForecast™ solution set.

forward look, inc.'s President and CEO, Chito Jovellanos remarked: "StreamBase provides our mutual clients with a robust Complex Event Processing Solution for quickly and measurably addressing the inefficiencies inherent in an investment manager's operation. Since our RiskForecast™ service is designed to deliver material improvements in performance within six to twelve months of implementation, only a select group of service and technology providers have the capability to enable these demanding results. Based on our experience, StreamBase provides the rapid application development environment, rapid deployment, and ease of maintenance required to meet these stringent standards."

William Hobbib, StreamBase VP of Marketing, said: "forward look, inc. and StreamBase both recognize the importance of timely resolution of portfolio performance issues. We are pleased to be working with forward look, inc. to provide our mutual clients with solutions targeted to their pressing needs through the innovative new RiskForecast™ service."
